How can Health and Safety Services help you:

Health and Safety Services work in partnership with staff and the trade unions to help minimise significant risks in your work, whilst supporting the achievement of excellence in research, teaching and students' academic activities.

We offer a complete and consistent risk management support service along with independent expertise and impartial advice. Each faculty/service group has an assigned Health and Safety Manager to provide dedicated, proactive, strategic and professional support. They are helped by Health and Safety Coordinators who can offer a wide range of local day-to-day advice.
